

Campaign Contributions and Lobbying Expenditures of Tobacco Interests in California

2009-2010 Election Cycle: January – June 2009

This report details spending by tobacco interests on lobbying expenditures and campaign contributions for the first six months of the 2009-2010 election cycle. This report is one in a series of regular updates produced by the Center for Tobacco Policy & Organizing, a project of the American Lung Association in California.

Introduction

In the first six months of 2009-2010 election cycle, tobacco interests have already spent more than $1.2 million on lobbying and nearly $1 million on campaign contributions to influence legislative policy and elections in California. Spending by tobacco interests on lobbying and campaign contributions in the 2009-2010 election cycle is well ahead of the spending pace by tobacco interests during the first six months of the 2007-2008 election cycle.

The amount spent on lobbying in the first six months of the 2009-2010 election cycle is more than double the amount spent during the first six months of the previous election cycle (2007-2008). Philip Morris USA Inc. was mainly responsible for this increase in spending. During the second quarter of 2009 (April – June), the company spent $842,120 on lobbying, which is nearly $300,000 more than the company has spent in any other quarter over the last 20 years on lobbying. It was during these three months that both the Senate and the Assembly held votes on budget legislation that included a tobacco tax increase. Also, during this time period, Philip Morris USA Inc. distributed a mailing to voters (which is counted as a lobbying expenditure) in several legislative districts to target legislators who had voted for an increase in the tobacco tax. In total, six bills related to a tobacco tax increase are listed on their lobbying report for the second quarter of 2009.

The amount spent on campaign contributions in the first six month reporting period of the 2009-2010 election cycle was nearly five times the amount spent during the first reporting period of the previous election cycle (2007-2008). The first reason for this increase was the statewide special election in May 2009. Philip Morris USA Inc. and Reynolds American Inc. contributed $625,000 to Budget Reform Now – Yes on 1A Through 1F, the committee in support of the six ballot initiatives. If passed, these ballot measures would have generated billions of dollars for the state general fund and redirected a portion of the Proposition 10 tobacco tax revenues. Secondly, tobacco interests have made contributions to state legislators at a much higher rate than they did during the first six months of the previous election cycle. Tobacco interests have already donated to 46 legislators for a total of $168,300, compared to only 11 legislators and a total of $23,797 during the first six months of the 2007-2008 election cycle.

Background

The tobacco interests profiled in this report hire lobbyists and are therefore considered lobbyist employers by the Secretary of State and are required to submit quarterly disclosure reports. These reports must state which legislative or administrative actions, such as bills or regulations, were lobbied during that quarter and how much money was spent on payments to lobbying firms and activity expenses, which is defined to include gifts, honoraria, consulting fees and salaries. Each quarter covers three months out of the calendar year (January through March, April through June, July through September, and October through December) making a total of eight quarters for the two-year reporting period. The figures on lobbying expenditures in this update come from the first two of eight quarterly disclosure reports in the 2009-2010 election cycle.

These tobacco entities, like other interest groups, are required by law to submit statements to the Secretary of State that detail campaign contributions twice annually and more often in election years. Campaign contributions include all monetary contributions and non-monetary contributions, such as donated goods or services. Philip Morris USA Inc. used to file its report of campaign contributions under the name Altria Group Inc.'s Affiliates, and the campaign contributions figures in this report contain all Altria Group Inc.'s Affiliates' contributions. Prior to 2007, that included contributions from Kraft Foods Global, Inc. which had filed its contributions under the name Altria Group Inc.'s Affiliates. However, in 2007, Kraft Foods Global, Inc. was spun off from Altria Group Inc.'s Affiliates and stopped filing its campaign contributions under the Altria Group Inc.'s Affiliates name. The US Smokeless Tobacco Company files under the name UST Inc., which includes the US Smokeless Tobacco Company and UST Public Affairs. The campaign finance figures in this report contain all UST Inc. contributions. The data on campaign contributions in this update comes from the first of four semiannual contributions reports for the 2009-2010 election cycle.

The Secretary of State's website, <http://cal-access.ss.ca.gov>, contains a searchable database with all of the figures that are found in this report. While this report attempts to convey accurate campaign finance and lobbying data, it is important to note that these records are subject to amendment by donors and data is subject to change.

The Center for Tobacco Policy & Organizing produces regular reports on lobbying expenditures and campaign contributions as this information is filed with the Secretary of State. For past reports, please visit the Center's website at www.Center4TobaccoPolicy.org/tobaccomoney. In addition, the Center maintains a database of campaign contributions to legislators and candidates from tobacco interests for the 2001-2002 election cycle through the present. This searchable database is available at www.Center4TobaccoPolicy.org/database.

Table 3: Contributions to Assembly Members from Tobacco Interests
(January 1, 2009 – June 30, 2009)

During the first six months of 2009, tobacco interests gave nearly $115,000 in campaign contributions to Members of the State Assembly. At this time during the 2007-2008 election cycle, tobacco interests had only made roughly $10,000 in contributions to Assembly Members.

Table 3 shows the contributions from tobacco interests to Members of the California State Assembly. Thirty-one Assembly Members have already received contributions from tobacco interests when only five Assembly Members had received contributions at this point in the previous election cycle. By the end of the 2007-2008 election cycle, 43 Assembly Members had accepted campaign contributions from tobacco interests.

*Curren Price served in the Assembly until June 8, 2009 when he was sworn into the State Senate. He also appears in Table 4 since he served in the Senate during the time period covered by this report. All of his contributions from tobacco interests are shown in this table since they were received while he served in the Assembly.

Table 4 shows the contributions from tobacco interests to Members of the California State Senate. During the first six months of the 2009-2010 election cycle, 15 Senators have already received campaign contributions from tobacco interests for a total of more than $53,000. At this point in the 2007-2008 election cycle, only six Senators had received contributions from tobacco interests and the total for the entire election cycle was 17 Senators.

Table 5: Contributions to Constitutional Officers from Tobacco Interests (January 1, 2009 – June 30, 2009)

Tobacco interests also gave contributions to constitutional officers, which includes statewide offices and the four Board of Equalization districts. While not being able to vote on tobacco-related legislation as state legislators can, these elected officials influence laws and government actions related to the tobacco industry. For example, the State Board of Equalization oversees the administration of cigarette and tobacco products taxes and tobacco licensing statutes. Table 5 shows contributions to constitutional officers who were all elected in 2006.

Table 6: Contributions to Candidates for Legislative and Constitutional Offices from Tobacco Interests (January 1, 2009 – June 30, 2009)

Candidates who wish to challenge incumbent legislators or to vie for open legislative seats have already begun fundraising for the 2010 primary election scheduled for June 8, 2010. Table 6 shows the contributions made by tobacco interests to candidates running for a state legislative or constitutional office who are not currently elected to one of those offices. Currently, this table includes only one candidate, but as the 2010 primary election gets closer, it is likely that tobacco interests will contribute to more candidates.

Table 7: Contributions to Political Committees from Tobacco Interests (January 1, 2009 – June 30, 2009)

Table 7 shows the contributions from tobacco interests to different political committees. Tobacco interests have already contributed to seven political committees during the 2009-2010 election cycle. At this time in the 2007-2008 election cycle, tobacco interests had only contributed to three political committees.

The names of political committees do not always make it clear what types of candidates and issues that committee supports or opposes. To provide a clearer picture about what type of committees are accepting contributions from tobacco companies, some background information about what each committee primarily spends its funds on is provided below.

Budget Reform Now - Yes on 1A Through 1F - Uses funds to support campaigns for Propositions 1A, 1B, 1C, 1D, 1E, and 1F

California Business PAC - Uses funds to support pro-business campaigns

California Republican Party – Uses funds to get Republican candidates elected

Protect Jobs, the Economy and Education – Uses funds to support specific campaigns

JOBSPAC - Uses funds to support pro-business candidates

Alliance for California's Tomorrow - Uses funds to support pro-business candidates

Committee for Community Values - Uses funds to support specific candidates
